

POETRY IN AMERICA

TEACH TOGETHER 2020

A Back-to-school Webinar Series for Connecticut Teachers

IN YOUR CLOSET: OUT YOUR WINDOW!

Friday, July 31 | 10:00 - 11:30 AM ET

Free for Connecticut Teachers

WHAT YOU'LL LEARN AND PRACTICE

Poetry in America's Teach Together 2020 Webinar Series offers support to middle- and high-school English Language Arts, History, Social Studies, and Art teachers who are working to design flexible lesson plans for the Fall 2020 semester. Developed by Harvard Professor Elisa New and her Poetry in America team, each webinar provides content area and pedagogical instruction for teachers, as well as engaging materials participants can use with their own students—whether teaching online or in the classroom.

FLEXIBLE CURRICULAR MATERIALS

[Preview | <https://bit.ly/2XSTMaD>] Feel the excitement of New York Fashion Week as you and your students learn about the global history of a shirt—like the one you're wearing! Journey across space and time as you think about the art—and the economics—that go into making garments. Examine Robert Pinsky's "Shirt" alongside young fashion designers, as well as fashion icons Stuart Weitzman, Johnson Hartig, and Betty Halbreich. And, finally...

[Preview | <https://bit.ly/2KmqtfC>] Join young campers at a wildlife preserve in Cape Cod, MA, as they explore Galway Kinnell's "The Gray Heron"...and do some birdwatching! Consider the art and science of birdwatching—and of watching more generally—with scientist E.O. Wilson and landscape photographer Laura McPhee.

Register here: <https://forms.gle/Bi1cvENFq3Ck5S3DA>